The Mahoneites have the impudence to pretend to believe that it was not the act of January 26, 1882, but only that act as amended by the Democratic Legislature of 1884, which was recently pronounced unconstitutional by the Su-Here are the words of the Supreme Court itself in the case of Poindexter ps. it was agreed that the coupons issued under that act should thereafter be receivable in payment of taxes, it was the contract of the State of Virginia.

"and inasmuch shy the Constitution of the United States,
which is also the supreme law of Virginia,

unchangeable and irrepealable by the State, the subsequent act of January 26, 1882, and all other tike acts [notice that] which deny the obligation of the contract and forbid its performance, are not the acts of

That is are null and void because unconstitutional. The syllabus of the Supreme Court of the United States, paragragh No. 11, reads as follows :

"The suit authorized by the act of the General Assembly of Virginia of January 26, 1882, against the collector of taxes, relating to accept a tender of coupons, to recover back the amount paid under protest is no remedy at all for the breach of the contract which required him to receive the coupons in payment." Paragraph No. 14 reads as follows :

Paragraph No. 14 reads as follows:

"The out of the General Assembly of Virginia of January 26, 1882, and the amendatory act of March 13, 1884, are unconstitutional and void, because they impair the obligation of the contract of the State with the coupon-holder under the act of March 30, 1871; and that being the main object of the two acts, the vice which invalidates them pervades them throughout and in all their provisions. It is not practicable to exparate those parts which repeal and abolish the actions of trepass, and trespass on the case, and other particular forms of action, as remedies for the tax-payer who has tendered his coupons in payment of taxes, from the main object of the sats which that prohibition was intended to effectuate; and it follows that the whole of these and similar statutes must be declared to be unconstitutional, null, and void."

Again: The Supreme Court said: Again : The Supreme Court said :

Again: The Supreme Court said:

"To coerce creditors holding bonds issued under the act of March 30, 1871, to exchange them for these new [Riddlebe@or] bonds, at these reduced rates, and with them to give up their security for the payment of interest arising out of the receivability of coupons in payment of taxes, is the evident purpose of the act of January 26, 1882 [Manone's law], and of March 13, 1884 [Democratic law]. The whole legislation in all its parks as to creditors affected by it and not consenting to it must be pronounced nuil
and void."

POINDEXTER brought his suit April 26, 1883, nearly twelve months before the act of 1884 was passed! It could not have got into the case before it was passed. Now, hear the court

"It appears from the record that there was drawn in question the validity of the said act of the General Assembly of Virginia, approved January 26, 1882, and of the eighteenth section of the act of the General Assembly of the State of Virginia, approved April 1, 1879."

Not a word about the act of 1884, which could not have been questioned before it was passed. Indeed, the Supreme Court travelled out of the record and drew it into the case by the heels. Now as to licenses and the act of the Democratic Legislature of February 25, 1884, so far as this act was involved in the case of Moore ve. Greenhow, we can only republish our telegram of May 4.

It is as follows:

Wasmington, May 4.—Justice Matthews delivered the opinion in the Virginia coupon-tax case of Moore 12, Greenhow to-day. The plaintiff in error in this case filed a petition in April, 1884, in the Circuit Court of the city of Richmond, praying for a mandamus to compet the defendant, as Treasurer of the city of Richmond, to issee him a certificate stating that he had made the deposit required by law in payment of his lineuse-tax. He having tendered to the Treasurer coupons cut from State bonds, and the tender having been refused, and the writ prayed for having been refused, and the writ prayed for having been refused by the Circuit Court, and upon a writ of error to the Supreme Court of Appeals the judgment of the lower court having been affirmed, the case was brought to the court. Justice Matthews, in delivering the opinien of the court, held that this being a case in which by a mandamus it is sought to compet the officers of the State of Virginia specifically to receive coupons instead of money in payment of Boense-taxes, it comes withis the exact terms of the decision of the majority of this court in Antoni rs. Greenhow, according to which pravided by the set of January 14, 1882. The judgment of the Supreme Court of Appeals of Virginia is therefore a filtred.

The best answer to the claim that the license act has been pronounced unconstitutional is the fact that we have heard of no licenses baving been issued which | that the case was coram judice. were not paid for in money. That would seem to indicate that the law is in full force. At any rate, nobody will head of the only honest debt-paying plain so long as all licenses shall be paid for in money.

Significant Statements. The "war news" has settled down to a dull, monotonous level that is very well expressed in the two words "still negotiating." Public excitement seems to have quieted down in England, and even the tone of the inspired Russian press is, as far as we are permitted to know it, more pacific. However, an extreme optimist view of the situation per cent. is by no means justified. There are those who think, and think with reason, that the present status of affairs is simply the calm that precedes the storm. Recently two ments have come from Russia

They have not supported the Government in its efforts to stamp out Nihilism as they might have done, for the reason that a constitution, even, if forced from the Czar by Nihilism, meant for them the opportunity to enter the political field and attain political power and preferment. That the present Czar will grant a constitutional form of government is hardly probable, but for some time past there have been indications that he has recognized the wisdom of conciliating the old nobility. That he should sooner or later listen to the old Moscow party and use it to root out Nihilism seems inevitable; and what better opportunity could there be for so doing than the present? He must see that to a certain extent he is in the power of the old nobility; that Nihilism is growing porary the Cong. essional Record would in proportion to their indifference, and that his own safety may be involved in the outcome of this crisis. We ask the New York Herald to read the following report of a recent decision of a United States circuit judge. It is to be found in the Herald of May 16th:

of May 16th:

The Right to Sue a State,—New Orleans, Lo., May 15, 1885.—Judge Billings, sitting in the United States Circuit Court, to-day rendered a decision in the case of Bernard B. Hans 12, the State of Louistana, involving questions as to the right of a cultivate to sue a State without permission in the United States Court, and the unconstitutionality (alleged by plaintiff) of the article of the [Louistanas] Constitution of 1879 remitting interest coupon No. 12 on the consolidated bonds, Judge Billings held that there was no way to bind a nation to a contract with an individual for the faithful performance of a contract depending upon the good faith of a sovereign. No power can call any State to account for the discharge of a contract; further, a State cannot be sued without its consent. The suit was dismissed. The case will be appealed to the supreme Court.

ARTESIAN WELLS .- Artesian wells are becoming more and more popular. An interesting Savannah letter in the Charleston News and Courier says:

Charleston News and Courier says:

The report of Professor White, State chemist, on the sample of Savannah Artesian water sent him for analysis has excited renewed interest on the subject of Artesian wells. The water is certified to be remarkably pure and wholesome, and waile the well is only a partial success, the water not rising above the surface of the ground, the bering of it has proved that the best quality of water can be obtained here for domestic and culinary purposes at a moderate cost. Some of our citizens are sanguine enough to assert that with a good system of house draisage, and pure water in plentiful supply, Savannah would be the healthlest city in the world. The closing of the old pumps and the boring of Artesian wells in all parts of the city is only a question of time. The pump water here is admitted to be exceedingly unwholesome. Yet thousands are compelled to use it. The river water is a fittle better, but it is undoubtedly contaminated with flith, which is discharged from the sewers of this city as well of Augusta. After rains up the river the water is extremely muddy for several days. The river water is greatly improved by filtering, but most filters in use are unsatisfactory from defects in construction or from neglect to care for them properly. It is understanced that the boring of several mew Artesian wells in already contemplated by persons owning property in the suburbs. The pumps in the squares and fill their places with Artesian wells will doubtless soon become so great that the work will be undertaken and pushed forward as rapidly as practicable.

Judge Wellford's Decision, To the Editor of the Dispatch :

The decision of Judge Wellford on Friday last, published in Saturday's Dispatch, outflanked Mr. Royall at his first start under the late decisions of the Supreme Court, and is but a fore taste of the failures which will dog every step of his effort to enslave the people of Virginia under cover of the authority of five judges, including one corrupt associate of the nine who compose the court. For no matter under what usurpin decrees he may make his advances the people have the game in their own hands. They see that a refusal to buy the hated coupons will wither them to less than the original value of the cheap paper which has been spoiled by the coupons engraved upon it; and they will refuse to buy them. Nay more: They will spot the men who try to pay their taxes in coupons, or who try to make money by paying other people's taxes in coupons; and all who are of sufficient consequence to be worth the stigma will be remembered, and will feel it not only in the averted countenances of their patriotic fellow-citizens, but in the withdrawal of patron-

General J. D. Imboden, Richmond, Va. General,—I see through the papers that you have been misled in stating that General Jackson had put General D. H. Hill under arrest. It was A. P. Hill, on whose staff I was serving at the time. The cause of arrest was that General A. P. Hill's division being in front on march, and the men very much fagged out and scattered, General Hill ordered a rest, centrary, as I under-stood at the time, to Jackson's expresa command. When Jackson found the troops halting down the line he rode menced he was released and in command of the "Light Division."

I am very respectfully yours,
WILLIAM M. ARCHER.
